

Triad is a partnership of three organizations - law enforcement, senior citizens, and community groups. The sole purpose of Triad is to promote senior safety and to reduce the fear of crime that seniors often experience.

“Crimes targeting older adults are different in that victims are sought out because of perceived vulnerabilities, and these crimes affect older adults differently. Law enforcement, first responders, and those who work with older adults must understand this dynamic to curb these activities, and to assist the victims,” says Edward Hutchison, Triad Director, NSA. Triad is a commitment shared by the sheriff, leaders within the older adult community, and affiliated organizations to reduce the victimization of and increase law enforcement services available to older citizens. Now in its twentieth year, the Triad program has provided services to thousands of older adults and has become an invaluable resource to law enforcement agencies nationwide.
